The New Year.

*The flood of time is rolling on.
We stand upon its brink, whilst they are gone
To gilde in peace down double mysterious stream.
Have ye done well?

How these lines seem to chime in with the memories and suggest the duties of the anpiversary we celebrate to-day. The old year is dead and with it many whom we loved; with it many burning hopes and many resolutions. By some of us it has been embalmed in tears; for a few it is garlanded in joys. For some the foot of time has fallen oiselessly on flowers, but for the majority is has tredden heavily on hearts. And yet the question comes with equal force to sil, "Have ye done well?" Yes, both the joyful and the sorrowing have done well if the former have shared their joys with others,

RICHMOND, VA., December 31, 1888. former have shared their joys with others, and the latter can truly say: "My desolation doth begin to make A better life."

But whether we have done well or not -- whether or not we have kept our good reso- | years. Intions, shed sunshine into other hearts, and consecrated our crosses-here on the brink we can resolve that we will do well. Here, looking back upon the blessings of the year, material and other-for even those whose lots have been the hardest have been blessedwe can resolve to heed the simple philosophy of the Persian poet:

To-morrow's fate, though thou be wise, Thou canet not tell nor yet surmise; Pass, therefore, not to-day in vain, For it will never come again."

that come from the tomb of the old year will be drowned by the music of the new, the softened, and even the joys of the past will | 1889. gather new sweetness. If we shall face the tuture with a determination to do our duty to those about us—with a determination to make this a happy new year for others—it will be a happy new year for ourselves.

publicans will thus have only five majority. We do not know how the fact was ascertained, but anyhow it is reported by the Washington correspondent of the Alexandris Gazette to be a fact that although the Democrats have a majority of fourteen in the existing House of Representatives, they have never had present at any time members enough to constitute a quorum without counting any of the Republicans. Whether the statement in question be true or not, it is certain that with a majority of only five in the House the Republicans will almost certainly find it impossible to get a quorum of their own party to answer at roll-call. We draw encouraging inferences from the certainty that the Republicans in the next House of Representatives will seldom if ever be able to get together a quorum consisting of members of their own party. The impotence of the Republican majority will be the salvation of the South. We cannot believe that Mr. HARRISON will under such circumstances convene Congress in extra session. Although to a legislative body a quorum, once reported, is presumed to continue unti a question is raised on the subject, yet it is in the power o one fifth of the members present in the Plouse of Representatives at any time to demand a call of the roll, and, having demonstrated that no quorum voted, to make that point, and thus put a stop to legislation until a quorum appears. no doubt like to get rid of any rules of that DIVIDEND NOTICE. The Republicans in the next House would body which might curtail their power; but if the Democrats are wise they will never allow the rules to be changed in this respect, mor any objectionable measure to be passed, by less than a quorum.

In the British House of Commons three constitute a quorum, but in this counity, so constitute a quorum, but in this country, so far as we know, there is no legislative body in which fewer than a majority constitute a quorum. Whenever a bill is passed a majority is presumed to be present.

CHANTS NATIONAL BANK HAVE DE CLARED A DIVIDEND OF SE PER CENT. Green in the passed is the passed a majority is presumed to be present. rity is presumed to be present.

We trust that the Democrats in the nationa House of Representatives will never be guitty of so unpardonable a blunder as was made a few years ago by the Democrats of the Ohio Senate. On a certain day they all absented themselves in order to "break quorum," but, unfortunately, forgot that they had left nobody present to make the point that there was no quorum voting. The result was a complete victory for the Repubcans and an ignominious defeat for the Democrats. It appears that on Monday last there was no quorum in the Legislature of South Car .lina, though there was important legislation come on that day. The News and Courier received a telegram from New York, inquiring as to the constitutionality of the bills passed Monday, and of course replied that there was no doubt as to their coustisutionality. The fact is that every year many | will be of the most important bilis passed by Con-gress, or by any State Legislature, are passed RICHMONI in the absence of a quorum. Hundreds of thousands of dollars are sometimes appro printed by less than a quorum of either house of Congress. In fact, as our Charleston contemporary well says, if it were practicable to invalidate legislative action by the allegation that no quorum was present, in the absence of any record of the fact, the whole of the legislation of Congress and of every legislative body would be in danger

So though there is much virtue in a quorum, there may also be much virtue in the want of a quorum. If the Democrats in the House of Representative, shall prove fuithful to their duty, they will be able to protect not only the southern States, but the whole country from objectionable legislation. We need not fear that any bill can get through the House of Representatives having for its object the piacing of concressional elections all k the southern States under the control of Federal partisant. Some of the Republicans in Congress will, we doubt not, be glad that their party is powerless to engage in such

The Governor of Tennessee is a Democrat, and therefore we suppose that his determination to certify the election to Congress of Mr. Evans, a Republican, may be accepted as good evidence that Evans is entitled to the certificate. If Evans gets the certificate the Republicans will then have 164 members of the next House of Representatives. The members from the Third and Fourth West Virginia districts remain to be heard from.
